All kinds of jobs

• A graduate registered nurse may become one of the following:

Civilian hospital nurse
Army or Navy nurse
Nurse in a Veterans' or Marine hospital
Public health nurse
Industrial health nurse
Nurse in health relief and rehabilitation at home or abroad
Hospital superintendent or director
Instructor or director of school of nursing
Superintendent or executive in hospital nursing service
Physiotherapist
Visiting nurse
Nurse specializing in child health and guidance
Anesthetist, X-ray or laboratory assistant
Private duty nurse
Doctor's office assistant

Opportunities for nurses are expanding. Nursing is always interesting because it deals with people. It calls for initiative, resourcefulness, and responsibility. When the war is over, there will be additional opportunities at home and in foreign lands.

Income opportunities

• In public health, in executive nursing school and hospital positions, in community and industrial health work, graduate registered nurses may earn salaries as high as $6,000 to $7,500 a year.

Student administers hypodermic.